JUST A THOUGHT: As I look forward to welcoming everyone back to school, I thought I might share the following short tale. For some parents, sending children off to school for the first time – or for each time – can be a bit unsettling. Think of "school" as the "beanstalk" in the following:

Thoughts from the Top of the Beanstalk

Once upon a time there was a little boy named Jack who was about to climb his very first beanstalk. He had a fresh haircut and a brand-new book bag. Even though his friends in the neighborhood had climbed this same beanstalk almost every day last year, this was Jack's first day and he was a little nervous. So was his mother.

Early in the morning she brought him to the foot of the beanstalk. She talked encouragingly to Jack about all the fun he would have that day and how nice his giant would be. She reassured him that she would be back to pick him up at the end of the day.

For a moment they stood together, silently holding hands, gazing up at the beanstalk. To Jack it seemed much bigger than it had when his mother had pointed it out on the way to the store last week. His mother thought it looked big, too. She swallowed. Maybe she should have held Jack out a year...

Jack's mother straightened his shirt one last time, patted his shoulder and smiled down at him. She promised to stay and wave while he started climbing. Jack didn't say a word. He walked forward, grabbed a low-growing stem and slowly pulled himself up to the first leaf. He balanced there for a moment and then climbed more eagerly to the second leaf, then to the third and soon he had vanished into a high tangle of leaves and stems with never a backward glance at his mother. She stood alone at the bottom of the beanstalk, gazing up at the spot where Jack had disappeared. There was no rustle, no movement, and no sound to indicate that he was anywhere inside.

"Sometimes," she thought, "it's harder to be the one who waves good-bye than it is to be the one who climbs the beanstalk." She wondered how Jack would do. Would he miss her? How would he behave? Did his giant understand that little boys sometimes acted silly when they felt unsure? She fought down an urge to spring up the stalk after Jack and maybe duck behind a bean to take a peek at how he was doing. "I'd better not. What if he saw me?" She knew Jack was really old enough to handle this on his own.

She reminded herself that, after all, this was thought to be an excellent beanstalk and that everyone said his giant was not only kind but had outstanding qualifications. "It's not so much that I'm worried about him," she thought, rubbing the back of her neck. "It's just that he's growing up and I'm going to miss him." Jack's mother turned to leave. "Jack's going to have lots of bigger beanstalks to climb in his life," she told herself. "Today's the day he starts practicing for them... And today's the day I start practicing something too: cheering him on and waving good-bye."

We need you!

The SJR Home and School Association is dependent upon parent volunteers to help with many activities, fundraisers, and school services during the year. Please consider offering some of your valuable time and talent to improve our school. Below you will find a volunteer sign up sheet. Please complete and return it to Suzanne Sorge c/o Matthew -grade 3.

Parent volunteers are reminded that they must have their volunteer clearances. To learn how to obtain your clearances, check the school website, or call the rectory or school office.

We have many exciting volunteer opportunities this year at SJR! We are searching for a parent to coordinate our annual Recycle Challenge on April 22, during morning arrival.

We are also looking for a 5th or 6th grade parent (or parents) who would be interested in planning the 5th and 6th grade Halloween Dance. If a volunteer steps forward, the dance will take place on October 30.

In addition, we are also in need of 6th, 7th or 8th grade parents to chair and co-chair the 6th-8th grade dances. If parents volunteer to plan the dances, they will be held December 4, March 4 and June 10.

Finally, we are considering the possibility of a Yankee Candle Fundraiser to replace our annual Discount Card Fundraiser. We are also inviting a volunteer to coordinate this sale.

Thanks in advance for all you do!

Dear Parents,

Are you looking for a way to volunteer at our school, meet parents, and get a chance to see your child during the school day? Well I have an opportunity for you! Lunch monitors are parent or grandparent volunteers that monitor the students during lunch as well as outside during recess. Kindergarten children eat lunch in their classroom while Grades 1-8 are in the Dining Hall. The time commitment is from 12:20pm – 1:00pm. This allows the teachers to have 40 minutes of free time to utilize as they need.

If you are interested in volunteering to monitor the lunch period, please complete the form below. All volunteers must have their volunteer clearances current and on file in the school office in order to participate. Those clearances include a state criminal background check, (FBI check if you have not resided in PA the past 2 years), a child abuse check, and completion of various online and in person abuse reporting programs. Please check with the school office for more details.

Please return the bottom portion of this form to Cristina Dachowski c/o Drew Dachowski 8th grade or feel free to email your responses directly to me at dacshome@verizon.net. Feel free to contact me at 215.343.6673 should you have any questions.

Best Regards,

Cristina Dachowski (Drew Gr.8; and Lauren Gr .4)
